EAST FIRST ST., (In with Yates)

—Mrs. A. L. Miller is visiting in Polo.

—Mrs. Charles Metzler has a severe case of the mumps.

—The front of Albert Dollmeyer's barber shop is being painted.

—Hon. Sherwood Dixon is in attendence at the Ogle county court at Oregon today.

—It provokes a sort of frozen smile—those new ice cream signs at the restaurant windows.

—Messrs Geo. Squires and F. A. Watson went to Chicago yesterday on business of public importance.

—There will be a regular meeting of Dixon Camp 56, M. W. A., this evening. A large attendance is expected.

—Mrs. John McKinstry, of Nelson, was in town yesterday and stayed over with her friend, Mrs. Susan Harding, of Galena avenue.

—John L. Orvis returned last evening from the South, bringing with him his wife and son who have been spending some months in North Carolina.

—Mrs. Edward Brookner and daughter, Dora, left today for Chicago en route for her home in Germany. She will sail from New York in a couple of weeks.

—There was a heavy frost this morning in most parts of the city, and this is the 18th of May. How wicked Winter loves to linger in the lazy lap of Spring.

—Sells Bros.' circus is no sell on the people; as all will acknowledge when it makes its appearance in Dixon on the last day of May, one week from next Wednesday.

—Mr. J. H. Shafer, of Des Moines, Ia., is visiting J. Leydig, of North Dixon. They were in the same regiment and company during the war, and they enjoy this meeting very much.

—Unless you write, or have printed upon your envelopes the number of days you wish them held, the postmaster will hereafter, under a new ruling, hold it thirty days instead of ten.

—Friday evening of next week Diana Lodge No. 210 K. of P. will hold a banquet at Assembly Park Hotel, in which the lodges of Amboy, Sterling and surrounding cities will participate. A number of prominent Pythians from abroad are expected and preparations are being made for a grand reunion.

—The man who went out to milk, and sat down on a bowlder in the pasture and waited for the cow to back up to him, was the oldest brother of the man who kept store and did not advertise, because he reasoned that the purchasing public would back up to his place when it wanted to buy something.

—Mrs Margaret Rubeno died at Galena, aged 96. She settled there in 1824, when there were but three families of whites in Galena The last survivor of the colony that then existed passed away three months ago in the person of D. S. Harris. She was, both in point of age and period of residence, the oldest resident of Galena.

—The Windsor Park World's Fair club for May 22nd will leave Dixon on Monday of that date on the 7 a. m. train, which arrives in Chicago about 10:45 The usual transfer of persons and baggage can be obtained on train to the new Twelfth street Illinois Central depot, where parties will re-check to Windsor Park.

J. F. Palmer.

—Eight prisoners who held up a train in Alabama and robbed it and who also killed the mail clerks in order to secure booty from the car, passed through Freeport Saturday evening in charge of three officers to Anamosa, Iowa, where they will be put in prison. The case is one in which the national government takes a hand, inasmuch as they interfered with the United States mail and they can be tried at any place desired.—Freeport Democrat.

—Let all men—especially young men—attend the lecture of Prof. Pratt this evening at the Lutheran church. The subject, "Personal Purity,"—not by any means too thoroughly understood—will be handled in a way to arrest the attention and afford much valuable information and instruction. The professor is spoken of as a practical and impressive speaker, and, as has already been stated, he comes at the solicitation of Dr. O. B. Blackman of our city. The lecture is to men only and is entirely free. Some cards of invitation were issued early; but all will be equally welcome, whether specially invited or not.

—The first outdoor band concert of the season will be given this evening from the pagoda in Court House Park, by the Henderson Shoe Factory Band. The crowds who attended these concerts last season showed that our people appreciated and richly enjoyed the fine music that our thoroughly organized musical talent so generously supplied; and we are exceedingly glad that these concerts are to be thus early renewed. We hope that the band will meet a more substantial appreciation than the fact of having contributed to the enjoyment and the refining influences of the community. There is no nicer way of spending the closing hours of a busy day than in listening to the restful, harmonizing strains of music and watching its effect on the constantly changing crowd.

—Dr. Miller, the newly elected health commissioner of Dixon is already flooded with complaints from all localities as to the seemingly unsanitary condition of our city. These will be investigated as promptly as possible, and in a short time the Queen City of Rock River will arise in all her pristine purity. In the meantime, let the head of every family, instead of keeping his eye on his neighbor's ash pile, see to it that his own cellar and outhouses are in a condition that will not cause him to blush when the officer visits his premises. A health officer's duties are not among the most pleasant in the world, even in Dixon, which is far from a dirty city; but even here there are some spots that need overhauling, and they will get it, if not by private, then by public attention.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Oller, of Logan avenue, West End, had been married but a week when last evening they had abundant opportunity to show their ability as host and hostess. Frank is Chief officer of the Good Templar Lodge, and at the lodge meeting Tuesday evening a surprise visit was extemporized among the members, who decided to make a raid on the home of the young couple on the following evening. A more complete surprise was never planned and successfully carried out. About forty brothers and sisters assembled at the lodge room and about eight o'clock proceeded to take up their line of march to the West End. The young couple had not yet arisen from a late supper, Mr. Oller having just returned from a job in the country. As the procession filed past their cottage windows on its way to the porch, the start of unfeined surprie gave the first evidence of the success of the enterprise. When the temperance army took possession of the fort it found a truly cozy little home, already well filled with evidences of a refined taste. To most of those who had so uncerimoneously introduced themselves into her domain, Mrs. Oller was personally unknown; but long before the departure of her guests, by her kindliness and grace she had made conquest of more than a score of personal friends. In the earlier stages of evening enjoyment the limited supply of chairs made some close companionships necessary; but a fresh relay of seats soon put everyone at his ease. After an hour of social chat, a variety of games were participated in, and then from some mysterious depths were fished up hidden baskets and bundles that had been smuggled into the house by the committee on commissary supplies. Soon an appetizing repast was served, consisting of sandwiches, cheese, pickles, cake, fruits and confectionary; and these young people, who when asked to drink, always say, "No, thank you," showed a wonderful capacity and aptitude for storing away edibles. After the gustatory enjoyment of the evening had subsided, the principal reason for the friendly visit was made apparent, when Dana Johnson stepped forward and in behalf of the lodge presented Mr. and Mrs. Oller first with a small but choice framed pastel landscape, a companion piece to one already hanging on the wall, and secondly with a large and handsomely bound family bible. Mr. Johnson accompanied the presentation with a neat and appropriate speech and Mr. Oller, though evidentially taken the second time completely by surprise, responded briefly but heartily on behalf of himself and wife In the bible is a card with the names of the company assembled last evening, a sort of family record, so to speak, of brothers and sisters engaged in one branch of reform. Along toward midnight the party gradually dispersed, leaving their host and hostess once more in peaceful possession of their own premises. Following is the list of visitors;

Messrs. and Mesdames A. P. Corbin, C. W. Senneff, Bert Robinson, C. A. Lucas

Misses Stella Weigle, Nellie Burnett, Bessie Hoisington, Sadie Gardner, Mabel Hoisington, Elvina Bothe, Ida Thompson, Nellie Moore, Eva Anderson, Mabel Leydig.

Messrs. C. M. Marhoff, Geo. Anderson, W. H. Garnsey, Jas. Little, Thos. Courtright, H. Beckingham, Freeman Hill, Frank Bender, J. P. Nicewenner, W. O Sanders, J. H. Moore, Dana C. Johnson, Jacob Hill, Noah Weaver.

—Jas. A. Hawley and Ira W. Lewis are in Chicago.

—Foster Moore, of Polo, visited North Dixon friends last evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Lawton, of Palmyra, are at the World's Fair.

—F. L. Tritle, an insurance man of Rockford is here on business today.

—E. L. Kling, W. F. Weaver, and G. O. Wendell enjoyed a fishing trip this morning.

—Telephone No. 115 is being placed in C. J. Rosbrook's hardware and implement store on First street.

—S. S. Dodge sold yesterday a lady's and a gent's Columbia bicycle to Alex. Anderson, who lives near Polo. They were one hundred and fifty dollars each.

—Some fine fish are being taken from our river. This morning H. O. Brown, Fred North and C. A. Stackpole, early this morning secured some very fine strings of bass and pike.

—The Gaffney brothers are filling in earth taken from the W. N. Johnson real estate, their lots purchased of the Dement estate on Crawford and Second. It will be a decided improvement to those vacated lots.

—If the city authorities will order the regular weekly or semi-weekly flushing of the sewers in the business streets, the business men will gladly see to the cleaning thereof and the appearance of First street and Galena avenue would be greatly improved.

—The Telegraph is free to admit that it has not been particularly on the side of Sandwhich Island annexation; but it is free to confess that very unfair arguments have been used to prejudice the people against the policy of annexation adopted by ex-President Harrison, the most potent was that the sugar barons of the islands were clamoring to be annexed, that they might secure the bounty offered by the United States on their product. It now appears that Claus Spreckels, the leading planter, is opposed to the movement.

—Wm. N. Johnson is making extensive improvements on his home on Second and Ottawa avenue. He is moving to Crawford avenue the house heretofore occupied by the Ingraham family and will move the barn, now upon the alley, east of his residence from the street to the rear of the tenement house he will have "over the hill." After he is through, in this May moving operation, playing checkers with tenement house barns and streets, and grades down the lot north of his residence, he will have one of the finest centrally located homes in the city.

DEADLY EXPLOSION

A Gluecose Factory at Geneva, Ill., Blown Up.

SIX CORPSES TAKEN FROM THE RUIN

One More Fatally Hurt and Another Seriously So—The Upper Stories of the Building Reduced to Debris—An Exploding Converter Works the Havoc—Fourteen Victims of the Storm on the Lakes—Four of Them Life Savers.

GENEVA, Ills., May 18.—The Charles Pope glucose works in this city is a pile of ruins, caused by the explosions of one of the large brass converter used to convert the starch into glucose. The remains of six employes are lying in a temporary morgue made of an adjacent building, all of whom were taken from the ruins. Their names are: Victor Anderson, Louis Schultz, Fred Storm, E. Lund, Alfred Anderson, and J. Danielson. Besides these J. Kalberg is fatally injured and William Pratt seriously hurt.

One Man Still Missing.

There is one man still missing. All of the deceased were married and some had large families, with one exception. The cause of the explosion seems to be a mystery; as yet no one has presumed to explain its real cause. The wrecked building is one owned by Charles Pope and was built in 1880. It was a brick structure six stories high and about 300 feet in length by 100 feet in width.

Shock Felt for Three Miles.

The explosion demolished the entire building from the top story to the second floor. As to the loss of the company it cannot be estimated. The value of the building, however, is placed at $500,000. The shock was a terrific one and was felt throughout a radius of three miles. That more lives were not lost borders on the miraculous. The scene presented the usual one of devastation, and the suffering of the scalded ones was indeed pitiful. People in the vicinity immediately ran to the rescue and the work of assistance was soon begun.

Fire Breaks Out in the Ruins.

No sooner had the crash occurred than fire broke out in the ruins, and lines of men were formed and buckets of water passed and thrown upon the blazing ruins. After hard work the fire was extinguished and the work of rescue commenced. In the outer edge of the wreck were found two of the workmen. They were buried beneath a mass of bricks, but were partially protected by some of the woodwork of the flooring, which had fallen above them. They were unconscious, but alive.

Four Bodies Recovered.

Deeper in the ruins another body was found, crushed almost beyond recognition and charred by the flames. Near by two other bodies were found. Both men had been killed by the weight of the brick and machinery which had fallen upon them. A short distance from the spot where these bodies were found was a huge heap of brick, broken timbers, and twisted iron rods. Groans were heard from this and the work of the relief committee was directed toward removing the debris. After working for some time the men came upon the body of a man.

Just Too Late to Save Him.

Life was barely extinct, and it was thought that the cries that were heard were his last despairing appeal for aid. Digging still deeper in the ruins the body of another workman was recovered. Death had come to him instantly.

FOUR LIFE-SAVERS DROWNED.

And the Two Men They Tried to Rescue Also Lost.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—Captain Stanley Flannagan and Michael Le Blonde, of this city, were going down the river in a rowboat which they used for peddling milk along the docks. When near the mouth of the raging stream one of LeBlonde's oars broke and the two men were left at mercy of the waters. They were quickly carried out into the lake by the rushing stream, and as it was evident that their frail craft could not live in the angry sea that was coming in from the north preparations were quickly begun for their rescue by the life-saving crew.

"Nine men manned the life-boat and pulled away toward the east pier of the breakwater, toward which point the boat containing Flannigan and Le Blonde had drifted. When the life savers were well out of the mouth of the river an oar broke and in an instant the cork-like vessel swung about to toss upon the angry waves. The men in the lifeboat were totally helpless, and before assistance of any kind could be rendered their boat was overturned and the men were thrown into the water. Five of them succeeded in catching hold of the overturned lifeboat, where they hung on until they were rescued in a terribly exhausted condition.

Four of their fellow life-savers were tossed about so mercilessly by the wild waves that they were unable to swim back to the life boat, and after vainly battling for a few moments with the elements they were overcome and the battle of life had to be given up. The names of the men who lost their lives are: Chester Simons, John Johnson, Nicholas Servas, and Albert Currier.

Captain Distell and four others of the crew were brought ashore by a tugboat. The lifeboat was found after the accident near the east end of the breakwater. Flannagan and LeBlonde, the two men whom the life-saving crew were attempting to rescue, were also drowned. Their bodies have not yet been recovered.

All Hands Lost with the Wreck.

CONNEAUT, O., May 18.—The dredge Continental foundered in the lake opposite this place and four men and a woman were drowned in sight of the people on shore. Their names are: Arthur Wilson, captain, of Philadelphia; George O'Rourke, Detroit; Joseph Fife, of Conneaut; Maggie White, cook, of Cleveland; watchman, name unknown.

Three More Victims of the Storm.

ASHTABULA, O., May 18.—Three of the seven men of the crew of the schooner Pelican were lost off the pier at this place. Names of the drowned: Peter Nelson, first mate, and John Erickson and John E. Knight, sailors, all of Cleveland. The schooner foundered in the storm.

Street Car Conductor Killed.

BRISTOL, Tenn., May 18.—While a street car was crossing the South Atlantic and Ohio railway here a yard engine crushed into it and instantly killed Conductor Alfred Parrott, slightly injuring several passengers.

Illinois Central Statement.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The March statement of the Illinois Central shows gross earnings $14,360,280, an increase of $43,606; expenses $10,785,122, an increase of $281,379 and net $4,075,158, a decrease of $238,573.

SOLONS TAKE ANOTHER REST.

Five More Days in Which Nothing Will Be Done at Lawmaking.

SPRINGFIELD, May 18.—The first thing the senate did was to pass a resolution to adjourn to Monday evening so as to go to the dedication of the Illinois building at the World's fair. There were 10 nays. The governor nominated Dennis J. Hogan, of Kane county, trustee northern insane hospital to succeed Newman, a recent appointee of the governor, removed. The bill authorizing special assessments, etc. was passed. A message was received from the house announcing its concurrence with the adjournment resolution.

The house has advanced to third reading bills appropriating $100,000 to Joliet penitentiary; appropriating $6,350 for the state laboratory of natural history; appropriating $25,000 per year and half the college and seminary fund interest to the Normal university; appropriating $12,000 for the Quincy Soldiers' home. A resolution was adopted for a rearrangement of committees so as to dispense with some clerks and janitors. The bill limiting street car fares to 5 cents a passenger was lost for want of votes. Notice of a motion to reconsider was given. The bill to authorize the Jackson park Chicago commissioners to purchase the World's Fair art palace was passed. The bill to appropriate $12,500 to to pay indebtness of the I. N. G. was sent to third reading, as were the bills appropriating $120,000 for ordinary expenses of the guard, giving $300 annually to the Bee-Keepers association and providing $3,000 for a better water supply for the Soldiers' Orphans home. The bill locating the state fair at Peoria and appropriating $50,000 was passed.

MORE DEVILTRY AT MUSCATINE.

An Infernal Machine Found by Boys—Anti-Saloonists Threatened.

MUSCATINE, Ia., May 18.—A seven and one-half pound can of powder, with about four feet of fuse attached, was found inclosed in a gunny sack by two small school boys. It lay near the premises of James Bennett, who is one of the plaintiffs in the recent saloon injunction suits. The can is of the same manufacture as those stolen from the powder houses across the river some weeks ago, and which were used in blowing up the houses of Mahin, Kessenger and Rosenberger. Threatening letters have been received by Kessenger warning himself and associates to desist from the prosecutions or they would all receive more medicine of the same sort.

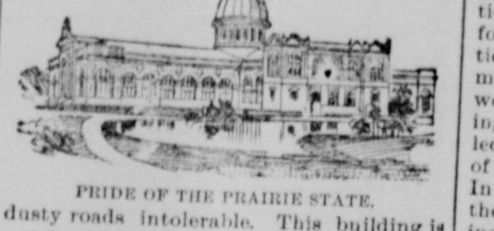
KEEPS OPEN HOUSE

Illinois at the Grounds of the Exposition.

HER TEMPLE AND HOME DEDICATED

And All the World Made Welcome There—A Complete Fair of Itself—Synopsis of the Ceremony—Eminent Actresses Talk at the Woman's Congress—Madam Modjeska's Remarks—Doings of the Editors—Music Scandal Reaches a Crisis.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Illinois, being the host of the states of the Union and the nations of the earth during the period of the Columbian exposition, dedicated today a big building at the World's fair grounds, into which visitors will be welcome to come and stick their feet up on the andirons during the present wintry spell or lounge about the broad, shady porches when the heat of summer makes sightseeing and dusty roads intolerable. This building is not for Illinoisans alone. It is for everybody. Most of the states and nations that are represented at the exposition have club houses or headquarters of their own. There are some, however, that have not. But whether they have or not makes no difference; they will all be welcome in the Illinois building.



PRIDE OF THE PRAIRIE STATE.

An Illinois Exposition in Itself.

For two years or more have been going on the preparations which resulted in today's festivities and in the exposition of the beautiful things which the big building contains. Men have worked and women have worked, and the state has been scoured from one end to the other for material that would be of use in making a display of the resources of Illinois art and industries. Nearly every Illinoisan has had an interest in the state building at the fair and all who could have done something to make the building and its collection a credit to the state. The result is that Illinois has an exposition by itself in Jackson park.

Patriotic Overture by the Band.

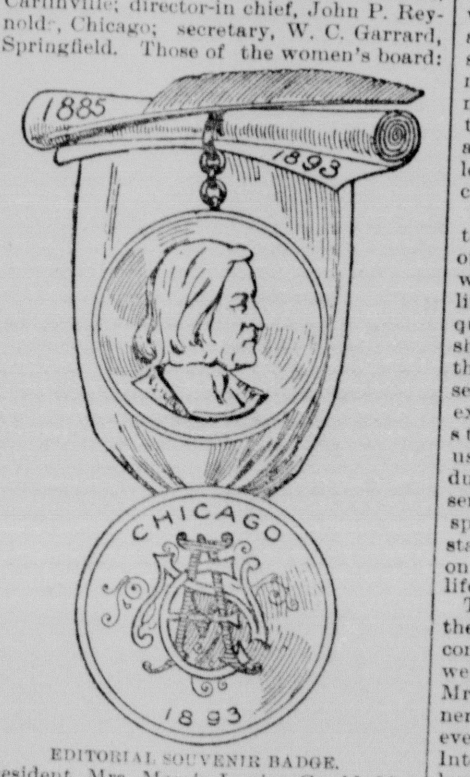
For an hour before the time set for the commencement of the proceedings—from 11 a. m. to 12 m.—the Second Regiment band of fifty pieces gave a concert consisting of patriotic airs. At 12 o'clock the Rev. W. F. Black, of the Central Church of Christ, delivered the opening prayer. Hon. Lafayette Funk, president of the Illinois state board of World's fair commissioners, followed with an address in which he formally delivered the building into the hands of the governor of the state, to which Governor Altgeld responded. Then the Hon Frank Jones, of Springfield, the newly appointed first assistant postmaster general, made the dedicatory oration. The band played as a fitting introduction to Carter H. Harrison's address on "Chicago," and Judge Lorin E. Collins concluded with a talk on the glory of the "Columbian Exposition."

A Banquet Closes the Dedication.

Then followed a banquet, collation or light lunch, in the provision of which the Illinois commissioners countered hard with the council of administration. Every man or company who caters to the public wants inside the fair grounds has to pay the exposition company a percentage of receipts. The concessionaires who supply food protested against the Illinois commissioners going outside to obtain bids for the banquet, arguing that it was not fair to the concessionaires. The Illinois men won. The banquet was enlivened by bright speeches by a number of orators and was an enjoyable affair throughout. There were 10,000 tickets issued to the dedication and men of note from all over the state were present, among them nearly every member of the legislature.

Personnel of the Commission.

The men and women who have had charge of the Illinois building have done themselves proud. The officers of the men's board are: President, Lafayette Funk, Shirley; vice president, David Gore, Carlinville; director-in chief, John P. Reynolds, Chicago; secretary, W. C. Garrard, Springfield. Those of the women's board:



EDITORIAL SOUVENIR BADGE.

President, Mrs. Marcia Louise Gould, Moline; vice president, Mrs. Robert H. Wiles, Chicago; secretary, Miss Mary Callahan, Robinson. The other members of the women's board are: Mrs. Richard J. Oglesby, Elkhart; Mrs. Frances L. Gilbert, Chicago; Mrs. Francine E. Patton, Springfield; Mrs. Isabelle Laning Candee, Cairo; Mrs. Frances Wells Shepard, Chicago.

Embarrassed by the Music Scandal.

The action of the national commission in demanding the resignation of Theodore Thomas has brought the commission and the local directory into a deadlock. Thomas is left in a very embarrassing position, and unless the matter is soon settled will retire from the exposition altogether. The matter will be brought before the board of reference and control today. The quarrel has now reached a point where the entire musical department of the fair, for which nearly $1,000,000 have been provided, is threatened. Still there are those who cannot see anything like fairness in permitting eastern music men who have refused to exhibit at the fair because they could not have things their way to be put, so far as actual exhibition is concerned, in a better position than those who have stood by the exposition directors.

ADDRESS TO THE EDITORS.

President Price Discusses Journalism in Various Aspects.

CHICAGO, May 18.—The annual address to the Editorial association was the "piece de resistance" of the feast of reason and flow of soul at the second session of the convention. Before he took the floor W. E. Pabor was elected temporary secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Kenedy. President Price began by congratulating the association on the fact that the good attendance was an indication that the editors were alive to their best interests. He then paid a feeling tribute to those who would meet with them no more, Kennedy, the late official secretary; the vigorous Major Bundy, the Stalwart Mstthews, quaint H. J. Stable, sturdy A. C. Cameron and good and talented Mary Allen West.

He thought the association did not keep in close enough touch with the primary bodies that send delegates to the association. With reference to a permanent home for the association he did not see any practical plan for it, but advised keeping the matter to the front in hopes that a way would be found. He suggested the founding of a historical, artistic, and curio collection—such as files, manuscripts, pictures of noted journalists, novel machinery, etc. In discussing schools of journalism he said they should teach everything from figuring on an advertisement to managing a newspaper, including the mechanical part of the business.

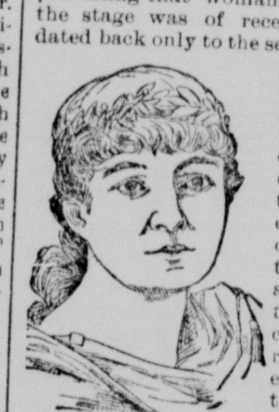
Reports of the usual committees were then heard and other routine business attended to and then the convention adjourned. In the afternoon the editors attended the Turkish theatre in Midway Plaisance, and at night a reception was tendered them at the Auditorium by the Woman's Press club of Illinois.

A NIGHT ON THE DRAMA.

Four Noted Actresses Discourse to the Women.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Four of America's greatest actresses were the attraction at the hall of Washington at night, where a large and enthusiastic audience gathered to hear their opinions on woman and her connection with the stage. The speakers were Mme. Modjeska, Georgie Cayvan, Clara Morris and Julia Marlowe. Miss Cayvan's remarks created the greatest enthusiasm on account of her style of delivery and the aptness of her subject. Mme. Mojeska opened with an elaborate review of "The Endowed Theatre." She was followed by Georgie Cayvan on "Woman in the Stock Company;" Clara Morris on "Woman in the Emotional Drama," and Julia Marlowe in an extempore speech.

Mme. Modjeska said that the impression prevailing that woman's connection with the stage was of recent occurrence and dated back only to the seventeenth century, was erroneous, and that woman's influence in the development and origin of the drama can be traced back to the middle ages, or the second half of the tenth century. The gifted actress reviewed the conditions and circumstances surrounding the comedy in that century of political upheaval and anarchy caused by the dis integration of the work of Charles the Great, and said that the greater part the community then expected the end of the world would come with the approaching milenium of the Christian era. It was not a favorable epoch for an artistic or literary revival, but yet in the convent of Gandersheim in Germany the first note of dramatic rennaissance was sounded by a woman's voice.



MODJESKA.

In this convent Hrosvitha the "nun of Gandersheim" wrote her first legend, her historical poems and her six or seven comedies. Of her life we know almost nothing. Mme. Mojeska spoke of the nun's works and how they fell into oblivion and were subsequently revived in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, and the tenor of Hrosvitha's writings, and dwelt upon the point of the first women players who, she said, were the nuns of the Gandersheim convent, and stated that woman's first appearance on the professional stage was in the sixteenth century in Spain, where she was not apparently welcomed. Italy was the next country where woman appeared upon the stage. In 1600 Marie Vernier, a French actress, made her debut. England followed much later, in 1629. Mme. Mojeska closed her remarkable address by saying:

"If the influence of our sex upon the theatre is beneficent, can we say the same of the influence of the theatre upon the woman herself? In other words, does the life of an actress tend to develop her better qualities or does it do the contrary? I should not like to give a decisibe reply to the question. I may say, however, that it seems to me that while the life we lead exposes us to a great many temptations, stimulates too much our vanity, and takes us sometimes too far from our every day, duties, it must certainly develop in us a sen se of independence and therefore of responsibility. As for morals, I can only state that there are as many good women on the stage as in an any other stage of life."

There were meetings going on all day in the women's congress. Social purity was considered in one hall and the speakers were Mrs. E. B. Grannis, Mrs. M. L. Thomas, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and Mrs. Helen Gardner. The subject was discussed in its every aspect. "The Solidarity of Human Interests," was another subject that a large audience listened to the discussion of in Washington hall. Women in politics filled the Columbus hall with beauty and eloquence. In these two halls there were several foreign women made speeches—Isabel Bogelot, of France; Callirhoe Parren, of Greece; Taughte Vignier, of Switzerland; Mme. Quesado, of Peru; Marie Derasmes, of France; Sieona Karla Machova, of Prague, and Dr. Marie Popelin, of Belgium, among them.

Night sessions of all the sections were held and in progress were meetings of the International Kindergarten union, Woman's National Indian association, Loyal Women of America and National W. C. T. U.

GENIUS WASTED.

An American Dickens Passing His Life In Inglorious Obscurity.

"I struck a literary genius in an unexpected quarter," remarked Newton Beers, the actor, to some professional gentlemen with whom he was indulging in some of those things which by a remarkable coincidence bore the same name as the actor did. "We were playing 'Lost In London' with specialty acts to one night stands down south. One dismal Saturday afternoon we landed in a small town. As night set in it began to pour down rain.

"It was a fearful night, but to my surprise there were about 100 people out to see the performance. But the gloom and damp without were infectious, and in spite of all our efforts no enthusiasm could be extorted from the crowd. The next morning I picked up the local paper and was astonished to see under the headline, 'Lost In London,' a full half column. I was curious to see what kind of a dramatic critic was to be found in so small a place.

"The article began with a description of the night before. It was as true to nature as anything Dickens ever wrote. I could hear between the lines the monotonous patter of rain and see the flickering lights of swaying lanterns and men moving about the streets swearing at the elements. And the description went on to within a half dozen lines of the end of the article, when it abruptly wound up by saying that in addition to the horrors of the night Newton Beers was in town with his 'Lost In London' show and suggesting that if the play could be cut off and let the audience have nothing but the specialties it would be appreciated by the amusement loving public.

"I heartily enjoyed the article. It was a perfect description of a rainy night in London. Before leaving town I hunted up that critic and was surprised to find a rural rooster who had never had an assignment on a daily paper in his life. I tried to get him to go to New York, and I offered to assist him, but he would not go. I bought a dozen copies of the paper containing the article and sent them to friends in various parts of the country, and all were deeply impressed with it. I presume the fellow is still doing drudgery and hiding his talents on that obscure sheet."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Faithful Dog Friends Separated.

The corner of Second and Marion streets is haunted by a mournful looking dog of uncertain breed. His behavior is strong evidence that dogs, even despised stray mongrels, feel grief at the loss of a friend.

The locality has long been the loafing place of two homeless dogs, with neither owners, friends nor good looks. There were as inseparable as Damon and Pythias, but some unfeeling human, who seemed to have a grudge against them, threw a piece of meat dosed with strychnine in their direction, and death carried off one of them. He writhed in convulsions three times, and then he stretched out his legs.

His old friend sat down by him and mourned, nor would he be comforted. A man tried to drag away the body, but he was so savagely attacked by the bereaved one that he desisted. Others drove the dog away, but he returned to his post. He sat watching by the cold, stiff body of the canine until the health officer came along and had it removed, and then he made such a disturbance that his attacks were warded off with difficulty.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

HEART DISEASE 30 YEARS.

GRAND ISLAND, NEB., April 8th, 1892.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

GENTLEMEN: I had been troubled with HEART DISEASE FOR THE LAST 30 YEARS, and although I was treated by able physicians and tried many remedies, I grew steadily worse until I WAS COMPLETELY PROSTRATED AND CONFINED TO MY BED WITHOUT ANY HOPE OF RECOVERY. I would have very bad sinking spells, when my pulse would stop beating altogether, and it was with the greatest difficulty that my circulation could be started, which would bring ck to consciousness again. While in this condition I tried your NEW HEART CURE, and began to improve from the first, and now I am able to do a good day's work for a man 68 years of age. I give DR. MILES' NEW HEART CURE all the credit for my recovery. It is over six months since I have taken any, although I keep a bottle in the house in case I should need it. I have also used your NERVE AND LIVER PILLS, and think a great deal of them. Z. AVERY.

THE G. O. M. VIGOROUSLY HISSED

While the Guest of the Heir Apparent—An Unpleasant Incident That Shows the Depth of Partisan Rancor—Cheers Changed to Groans When the Prime Minister Appeared, and All in the Very Highest Society.

LONDON, May 18.—The reception of the Prince of Wales at the Imperial institute was in every way successful. The duke of York and the Princess May were cheered repeatedly by the thousands of guests. Gladstone was present looking tired and irritated. A hostile demonstration was made by some of the ultra-Tories when he appeared. The demonstration against Gladstone was comparatively mild at first, but increased rapidly in volume which ended in hooting and hissing. Before Gladstone appeared the 18,000 or 20,000 persons at the reception were in the best temper.

British Aristocracy Was There.

There was a bewildering confusion of magnificent toilettes which showed the exceptionally high social standing of the guests. The duke of Cambridge, the duke and duchess of Fife, Prince and Princess Christian, duke and duchess of Connaught, duke and duchess of Teck, Lord Salisbury, groups of ministers and ex-ministers, members of parliament and generals of the army, most of them accompanied by their families, were mingled in an inextricable tangle. As rain was threatening the finest part of the display was confined to the gallery.

Liberals Were in the Minority.

As the royal procession moved through the galleries with the police pushing back the crowds to clear the way a roar of hurrahs arose and such general enthusiasm and good nature were apparent that those who had been apprehensive of a demonstration against Gladstone believed that the danger was passed. As the prime minister came in view the temper of the crowd changed instantly. At first a few hisses were heard, then half-suppressed groaning. As he proceeded the hooting and hissing swelled to an uproar which the Liberals present could not drown with their counter-cheers.

Disgraceful Exhibition of Partisanship.

The opinion almost universally expressed in London is that the demonstration was not only a disgraceful exhibition of partisanship but also a direct insult to the Prince of Wales, with whom the prime minister had just dined at the institute in company with the visitors from India. It is said that Gladstone absented himself from the exercises in the opening of the institute in accordance with the advice of friends, who believed that if he appeared he would be hooted.

Comments of The Times.

The Times regards the demonstration against Gladstone as a "lamentable fact." "The event was regrettable," says The Times, "because, after all, Mr. Gladstone was the guest of the Prince of Wales. The demonstration was not organized, however, but was a spontaneous and irrepressible breach of the conventions of society."

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—Ex-Sheriff Emil Dosenbach has paid $5,000 into the county court at Clayton for the widow of Major Smith, whom he killed July 13, 1892. Dosenbach was recently tried at St. Charles for the killing, found guilty, and sentenced to six months in jail with a fine of $500 added.

The treasury department is not advised whether all this gold will be taken from the sub-treasury, and until it is the exact amount of gold remaining cannot be stated.

Broke the Will of a Bishop.

BALTIMORE, May 18.—After standing fourteen years the will of Bishop Ames, of the Methodist church, has been broken by the verdict of a jury in the common pleas court. The strongest recommendation that any article can have is the endorsement of the mothers of the town. When the mothers recommend it you may know that article has more than ordinary merit. Baldness In Men and Women.

Baldness is more common in men than in women, and when it occurs in the women not the same part of the head is affected as in men. The cause of this difference is to be found in the care and covering of the hair by each sex.

The part of the scalp which in men first become hairless is that which the hatband circles. The tendency of a stiff, unyielding constriction around any portion of the body is to limit its blood supply and consequently its normal amount of nutrition.

The scalp, however, is much more fully supplied with blood than any other part of the body away from the head, which itself receives about one-third of the body's entire blood supply.

When the scalp is covered with a hat, impermeable and provided with a band which constricts the forehead, the normal ventilation of the skin of the scalp is interfered with; perspiration, evaporation, circulation and the conduction of nervous force are all unduly affected. The scalp thus kept heated and moist becomes soft and unhealthy.

In women the scalp is hardened to exposure of the bare head and is further covered by long hair, which grows more slowly and has more vitality than short hair.—Weiner Klinic.

A Fish That Could Talk.

A natural curiosity captured on the coast of Africa on May 5, 1854, by Signor Cavana and exhibited in all the great cities of Europe during the years 1859, 1860, 1861 and 1862, where it was advertised as the "Talking Fish," was in reality a species of the African seal well known to naturalists on account of its wonderful powers of mimicry. This particular animal was about 12 feet in length and weighed something over 800 pounds. It had a fine doglike head and large beautiful black eyes which seemed to sparkle with intelligence whenever the creature was spoken to by any one. It was very docile, and when told to dance would roll over and over in its bathtub, with first tail and then head above the water, all the time chattering as though enjoying the sport as much as the spectators did. It soon learned many odd tricks, and, it is claimed, learned to articulate at least three words very plainly, viz, "Mamma," "papa" and "John," the last being its keeper's name. When told to pray, it would clasp its "flippers" in the attitude of supplication and put on a sanctimonious look that could hardly be equaled by the most pious friar.—St. Louis Republic.

—A case of ill-bred impoliteness which makes one blush for our boasted civilization, and especially for what is sometimes called the "better half" of humanity. A woman—we cannot say a lady, was crossing the bridge yesterday with a light bundle, which the wind whisked from her hands and landed safely, but beyond yer reach, at the foot of one of the piers. A young gentleman was passing at the time and nimbly climbed over the guard railing, descended the face of the pier to the water, some fifteen feet below, secured the package, and with considerable difficulty re-ascended to the walk and restored it to its owner. He of course expected no other reward than a smile and a pleasant "Thank you, sir" But this was not vouchsafed him. The woman hed evidently been unaccustomed to receiving or according civilities, and merely took her recovered property, and without the least look of acknowlegement, went her way It would have served her just right had the young man taken the package from her hand and safely deposited it in the spot from whence he rescued it. We question whether or no boorishness is excusable in a man; it certainly is unpardonable in a woman.

THAT FEED SHED.

The City Council Says it Must go up. The Petitioners' Petition "Gone up."

Citizens, common every-day citizens should not monkey with the city council. That is the conclusion arrived at early last night by I. B. Countryman, Judge Farrand, et al.

These gentlemen, with all the property owners interested, presented a petition, not a careful "Round Robin," such as petitioners were wont to present to the despotic kings of England, so that the tyrant could not know and chop the heads from the leaders in the grievance, but a plain well defined petition with the first names thereon as conspicuous as were those of John Hancock, or "Charles Carroll of Carrollton" on the Declaration of Independence, which was not graciously received.

It appears that a permit to build a feed-shed had been pushed through the council. It is considered by property owners a sort of fire-trap. It is to have a sheet-iron covering; but that is but of little account, firemen claim, in preventing the spread of fire. Sheet iron soon becomes so hot that the wood in the interior, or near the outside, is quickly ignited; the building soon falls in and then becomes worse than a frame structure without the iron covering; for the reason that the latter can be easily pulled down and perhaps removed.

Property owners desired that the city council reconsider its action granting the right to erect the feed shed on Hennepin avenue, near the fire building, and presented a petition in that behalf.

Did the city council take the matter under consideration?

Well, hardly. That's why the petitioners are mad this morning. One is free to say that had the council simply told the petitioners to depart hence for the warm place, which one Colonel Ingersol insists does not exist, they would feel better about it; but to be treated with silent contempt was an indication that the city council of Dixon, against the expressed rights of our people, as granted in the constitution of the United States, had now practically denied the right of petition.

The petition by the council was however received, but that August body on that beautiful May night then adjourned, gave not a reason why the petition should not be granted. Like Sir John Falstaff, when caught in a tight place, "If reasons were as plenty as black berrries" your city council would not lower its dignity by giving a reason This seems to be about the status between the city council and the petitioners in the matter of the erection of a feed shed near the business portion of the city. People who have tears to shed over the erection of that hoss shed, prepare to shed them now, as indicated by the special session last evening.

THE TELEGRAPH only regrets that it cannot give a true life-like picture of that remarkable session of the city council. Some sort of a photographic illustration of the solemn scene from beginning to end would be histrionic if not historic. The special meeting was for the sole purpose of shedding light on a dark shed transaction. In a solemn tone as the occasion required, the clerk read the minutes of the last meeting after the council had been called to order in a funereal tone of voice. Then Judge Farrand stated the dangers from fire that surround a horse shed, and Hon. Sherwood Dixon stated the case for the shed owners. Then came a modest motion to adjourn, and the mayor announced the motion in a voice that would indicate that he was about to pronounce sentence of death on the petitioners, and the council adjourned. There was no "reconsideration," not even a plain consideration was proposed. The petitioners were at first completely dazed; then they recovered sufficiently to imagine that they had committed some sort of an offence against the "peace and dignity of said council;" and finally got onto themselves, before reaching their homes, sufficiently to believe that they had actually been somewhat snubbed; and upon waking up this morning have reached the conclusion that they are mad. This is the condition in which THE TELEGRAPH found these citizens while on the rounds for news items.

There is no foundation in fact to the rumor that Alderman Parsons had not been seen since he cast the only vote last night against the sudden adjournment. We are assured that the North Side alderman will "live to fight another day."

"A picture of brillancy and magnificence is presented that has rarely if ever been surpassed on the stages."—Times.

"The Black Cook" is a success from every point of view."—Dispatch.

"The dancers are all clever."—Mail.

"Never in Chicago has been seen such a production as was given last night on stage of McVicker's Theatre."—Globe.

ANOTHER BIBLE COMPLETED.

Rev. Bingham's Translation In the Language of the Gilbert Islanders.

The first Bible in the language of the Gilbert islanders was printed recently in the pressrooms of the American Bible society in the Bible House in New York city. The publication marks the end of 34 years of labor on the part of the Rev. Hiram Bingham, who has been a missionary on the islands.

Several friends of the missionary gathered in the composing room and listened to Mr. Bingham as he told of the work of his lifetime. His father, Hiram Bingham, was a missionary before him, Mr. Bingham himself having been born in Honolulu 62 years ago. He was graduated from Yale college in 1853, and in 1856 began his labors on the Gilbert island group, which is 2,500 miles to the southwest of the Sandwich Islands, being on the line of the equator. Three years afterward he undertook to reduce to writing the hitherto unwritten language of the natives and began the work of translating the New Testament. Ill health forced him to suspend his labor, and it was not until April 11, 1873, that he finished the New Testament.

On April 11, 1890, three years ago, he found himself at the last verse of the Old Testament. He then came to America and on May 12, 1892, put the manuscript into the hands of Dr. Gilman, the secretary of the Bible society, to be printed. On June 11 he received the first proof, and in in this city, with his wife, he began the proofreading 10 months ago. To read the proof of the last verse of the last chapter of Revelation and thus to end his task was the purpose of the ceremony.

Mr. Bingham stood in the center of his circle of friends among the fonts of type in the most notable composing room in the world, where the Scriptures are set in 242 different languages. The concluding verse was put in type, a proof was taken, a slight correction made, and Mr. Bingham read the verse aloud in the Gilbert island tongue. Superintendent Thompson then led the way to the pressroom, and another foreign Bible was added to the list printed by the American Bible society. In the afternoon several volumes were bound and presented as souvenirs of the occasion. The book contains 937 pages.

Loss of a British Ironclad.

Among ships that have sailed away and never reached their destination was the British ironclad Captain. Four hundred and seventy-two lives were lost with her, including Captain Hugh Burgoyne and Captain Cowper Coles, the designer of the ship. She capsized at midnight in a very heavy squall off Cape Finistere on Sept. 20, 1870, and sank in three minutes. Her low freeboard and heavy guns were said to be the cause of the accident. —New York World.
